

2nd July 2012

Sani Hire Leading from the front again with new Staff Qualification

Sani Hire are continuing to set the benchmark in the portable toilet hire and service industry with further innovations which puts their staff and service offering over and above the competition in terms of service delivery standards.

Unlike many of their competitors, Sani Hire are not a general hire company but specialise solely in the service and hire of portable toilets, waste tanks and associated products. This allows SaniHire to focus on working with customers to understand their needs, concerns and regulatory requirements when it comes to managing portable sanitation on their sites. For the customer this translates to happier workers, less downtime and a more productive work sites.

The company is unique in that they offer a dedicated servicing division, Sani Servicing, equipped with a fleet of 14 service vehicles specifically designed for on-site servicing work across metropolitan Victoria and NSW.

Sani-Hire are also in the process of putting their Service Technicians/Drivers through a new certification and assessment program conducted by Portable

Sanitation Association International, an organisation devoted to increasing and developing health and safety standards within the industry.

“The aim of putting our delivery staff through the course is to reinforce our commitment to the new Victorian WorkSafe recommendations that we adhere to with all our sites and all our vehicles” remarked Jason Wilson, Managing Director of Sani-Hire, which is one of Australia’s largest independent portable sanitation hire specialists.

“They’ll also be the best qualified technicians in the business with an eye to detail not often offered in the past. We want to offer the best customer service possible and our comprehensive and time-managed servicing regimes will ensure that we can.” added Mr Wilson.

“Because the new WorkSafe guidelines also cover waste-tanks, we’ve made sure our 12 pumpers are well equipped to provide the highest level of cleanliness and hygiene - and our drivers are the best trained.” Mr Wilson went on to say.

In addition to the pumping and rinsing out of tanks, WorkSafe has recommended the following items are included with any on-site servicing - checking pumps and components for effective operation; repairing any defects; adding deodoriser and treatment chemicals to the sewage storage tank; refilling the holding tank with water; replenishing soap or other hand disinfectant; replacing toilet paper; cleaning and disinfecting the internal compartment, including fittings such as pump and door handles, the floor, seat and bowl.

“We take our role as industry leaders pretty seriously and hope that the industry as a whole will continue to evolve and improve its standards. We’re certainly more than happy to observe WorkSafe’s recommendations and see it as a step forward. And our staff are definitely happy to take part in the course – it gives them a real edge” said Jason.

Sani-Hire is also in the process of introducing their new tanker signage livery – a smart, professional new look in keeping with their ever-increasing position as an industry innovator and leader.

Ends:

For more information contact:

Jason Wilson, Managing Director: T: 02 9743 4140

E: jason@sanihire.com.au